Robert Ellison

Requiem high mass was held at St. Jerome's Catholic church this morning at the funeral services of Robert Ellison, the well known Charleroi citizen, who died last Friday. Friends from Charleroi and other places attended the funeral. Members of Charleroi Aerie, No. 390, F. O. E., attended in a body. The body was taken to Pittsburgh for interment in Calvary cemetery. Pall bearers were James Robison, Patrick Acton, Al. Bertsche, Joseph Miller, Henry Miller, George Carvell, John Gaffney, and John Connors, all fellow members of the late Mr. Ellison in the Charleroi Aerie of Eagles.

"BILL" HELD UP; EXPERIENCE COSTS HIM CONSIDERABLE

Foreigner Pays Fine and Costs of Man Alleged to
Have Robbed Him

A foreigner whose first name is "Bill" and whose last name is a question, is out $9.85, as the result of being held up, it is claimed, and divorced from $15 of his money Saturday night. The $9.85 he is out, through paying the fine of the man who held up the money which he owed the latter.

Bill was on his way home Saturday night, it is said, and passing through a dark place, in the vicinity of Sixth street near the railroad, he was accosted by a man said to be John Osle, and asked to pay $8.00 alleged due the latter. Bill told John to wait a while whereupon it is said that the said John landed on the said Bill. When events were concluded Bill was minus $15 and needed the attention of a physician. The police arrested the man charged with the assault later, and on Sunday he was given a hearing. Bill had been in bed all day but he managed to get to the police station to tell his story. The matter was patched up by Bill agreeing to pay back $7.00 of the loan and the fine and costs.

One Man Shot and Another is Carved with Hatchet

WAR OVER BOARD BILL

Two Italians were seriously wounded at Monongahela last night in what is believed to have been a Black Hand affray at 9 Bridge street.

Shortly before 11 o'clock, John H. Wiper, a constable, and Urbie Rays were sitting at the flag station of the M. & W. railroad on Third street, near Bridge street, when they heard three shots fired. They went down the railroad and a foreigner walked onto their arms, crying, "I am shot and there is a man dead in No. 9."

The Italian had been shot in the back and in the arm. The shot that went in the back pierced through the stomach of the man and came out. He was taken to the office of Dr. F. F. Underwood by Ryan. Wiper started toward the house from where the shots were fired. He was met by another Italian who had been cut in the forehead with a hatchet. Wiper made an effort to find the assassin but he saw two men going from the house down to the river shore where they got in a skiff. Both injured Italians refused to give their names.

OLD MEN AT WORK

Shopmen's Strike Along
Pennsylvania Railroad at End

CONDITION ALONG VALLEY

Understood that Nearly All Former Employees are Back at Positions

The trouble between the Pennsylvania railroad and its former shop employees is near an end, according to a statement from the railroad company. Nearly all of the old men are said to have reported back for work in the shops near and in Pittsburgh.

The commissary department and "barracks" at the Thirtieth street shop, Pittsburgh, have been abolished and the company expects to abolish the commissaries and "barracks" at the other shops during the week. Railroad officials say most of the men on the Monongahela division have returned to work.

It is understood that a number of old men went back to work at West Brownsville this morning, and that the strike there has been settled along with other places along the Monongahela division. West Brownsville is the last place for the "commissary" to be retained. It was the only place where there was any trouble during the course of the strike, along the Monongahela division. The strike has been in force since May 1.

BISHOP WHITEHEAD COMING WEDNESDAY

The Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, S. T. D., bishop of the diocese of Pittsburgh, will visit St. Mary's Episcopal church Wednesday evening to administer the rite of confirmation. The service will consist of evening prayer and address by the bishop following the office of confirmation. This is the bishop's second visit to St. Mary's church this year. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Firemen Hear Annual Sermon

Rev. J. T. Hackett preached the annual sermon to the Charleroi firemen Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church. Meeting at the firemen's rooms in the Borough Building, the firemen marched to the church. A special program was rendered for the occasion by the choir under the direction of Prof. I. T. Danet. Te Deum in E flat by Dudley Buck was sung and the anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," by Harry R. Shelley. About 30 members of the department were present.

Selling Tags to Boost the League

Tags are being sold today by officers and managers of Charleroi Church League teams and their players for "Booster Day" to be celebrated this evening. The feature of "Booster Day" will be the game this evening between the Catholics and Methodists. The Executive Committee arranged for the affair as a means of replenishing the league treasury.

Three Week Pay Boosts Business

Shopping centers along the valley had a busy day Saturday, that day being the occasion of a three-weeks pay in many places. Charleroi stores were busy and in the evening large crowds thronged the streets. A big pay was disbursed at the Monessen mills.

ADULT CLASSES MEET

Arrangements For Trip to Canonsburg Friday Occupy Attention

At a meeting of the Adult Federated Classes held Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church here, it was decided not to charter a special car to take people from the Charleroi district to the county Sunday School convention on the closing day of this week. There will probably be from 50 to 100 persons going from the district to participate in the Adult's Day parade, but owing to the fact that several of them desire to leave early in the day, it was decided it would not be best to secure a special car.

In the parade which will take place on Friday evening the Charleroi district delegation will carry a banner. The Presbyterian Boy's Brigade will go from Charleroi, and be in the parade. The last car which it will be possible for people from here to take in order to reach Canonsburg in time to take part in the parade will be the one leaving here at 4:42 o'clock. Four delegates from every school in the district are entitled to attend.

At the meeting Sunday it was decided that the Adult Federated Classes hold an open meeting July 9, at the Methodist Episcopal church at which time an address will be made and a musical program rendered.

CHORAL UNION SINGS AT A LOCAL CHURCH

Monessen Organization Renders Pleasing Musical Program

Under the direction of the Prof. R. W. Davies, the Monessen Choral Union, rendered a musical program at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday evening. The choral union consisted of about 30 voices, in which there was included two Charleroi singers, L. E. Jobs, and Thomas Kendrick. The program consisted of choruses, solos, duets and quartets. All the musical numbers were excellently rendered. Rev. J. R. Burson, of Old Concord preached both morning and evening.

SAVINGS BANK FOR CANONSBURG

Postmaster General Hitchcock has designated Canonsburg, this county, as a postal savings bank. Canonsburg is thus second on the roll of postal savings banks for Washington county. McDonald was the first to be ordered but as the McDonald office will not open until October 1, Canonsburg will likely be the first office to start off with business. The order for this test station goes into effect on July 11.

FUNERAL OF L. M'CLURE HELD THIS MORNING

Friends Come From All Along Valley to Pay Their Last Respects

With friends of the deceased present from Charleroi and other points along the Monongahela valley, the funeral of Leander McClure, the pioneer citizen who died Friday from injuries received in a fall, was held this morning. Rev. W. G. Carl, pastor of the Monongahela Baptist church and a former pastor of the church in Charleroi of which Mr. McClure was a member and Rev. J. T. Hackett, of the First Presbyterian church, Charleroi, officiated. The body was taken to Round Hill cemetery, near Elizabeth, for interment. The pall bearers were B. F. Sayre, D. N. Hall, D. C. Whitlatch and Fred S. Cooper, all members of the Board of Trustees of the Baptist church, of which body Mr. McClure was also a member.

COMMENCEMENT SEASON

The commencement season at Washington and Jefferson College formally opened Sunday when the three score members of the class of 1911 filed across the campus in cap and gown and entered the big stone gymnasium by President James D. Moffitt of the college.

President Moffitt took his text from I Corinthians, xii, 31, "But covet earnestly the greater gifts."

"It is a mistake," he said, "to disparage human desires as the principal element in all coveting. Desire and the tendency to multiply new desires are to be regarded as the source of human progress. Desires become dangerous and lead to sin and crime only when gratification involves the violation of the divine law or human rights."

"The United States Steel Corporation through its highest officer, has asked for national regulation, begging Uncle Sam to hold it lest it hurt its competitors. After all, regulation by law is better for all parties than rigid suppression. Socialistic schemes for protection too often propose to suppress the desires of men that have led to this modern development. It is better for us to seek a harmless way for the gratification of these progressive desires than to cut the nerve of human activity."

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson's text Sunday night was taken from John xii; 25, 26—"He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

Dr. Stevenson is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, in

TRAIN STRIKES HIS AUTO

H. B. Hughes, Fellow Occupant, Escapes by Leaping
over the Seat

When a train crashed into the automobile of W. James Munce, Jr., a wealthy Washington citizen Saturday evening at the Richhill crossing near Washington, Mr. Munce was killed. H. B. Hughes, Esq., had a narrow escape. He leaped from the machine and escaped with a sprained ankle.

The two men were driving to the Washington Country Club. As the machine started slowly across the tracks, the roar of a locomotive was heard, and as the men looked up they saw the train bearing down on them.

Attorney Hughes vaulted over the seat of the car. As he alighted, he heard the locomotive crash into the machine. The automobile was dragged 30 feet and thrown against an iron tower at the side of the track. The machine was reduced to kindling and Munce was killed instantly. Fred Logan, the engineer of the train, was a friend of Munce.

Munce attended Washington and Jefferson College and was a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma Society. Munce is survived by his mother, with whom he made his home, and the following brothers: Dr. T. Edward Munce of Harrisburg; Russell Munce of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Samuel Munce of Washington, and R. L. Munce of Canonsburg, now in China on a tour of the world. He was well known in the Monongahela valley.

Claimed to Have Disturbed Calm on Trolley Car

Martin Groman, a coal miner, who it is said, was out for a little fun on Sunday and got a little too much red eye after spending a night in the lock-up thinking over his troubles decided this morning the best way was to pay for the damage he had caused. Groman took a street car ride yesterday and went to Roscoe. He wanted to get off at a certain place, and was inclined to raise a disturbance, it is stated, when the car went past. At the end of the run, he became very wrath, according to the story told, and shoved an umbrella through a window being brought to Charleroi and raising a disturbance all the way down, the conductor of the car had him put off here and arrested. He was given a fine, but at the time refused to settle for the window. This morning he was willing to come to terms.

PROFIT SHARING.

The profit-sharing plan of the United States Steel Corporation is yearly becoming more popular, subscriptions of employees at the beginning of this year having been the largest of any since the steel trust engaged in business. Subscriptions were received from 26,373 employees for an aggregate of 19,229 shares of preferred and 29,119 shares of common. In 1909, the only other year in which common stock was offered to employees, 15,318 shares of common and 25,000 shares of preferred were subscribed. The common and preferred stock subscribed represents a valuation, based upon the subscription prices of approximately $4,250,000. As is generally known the subscription price this year was fixed at $114 for the preferred, the allowance for special compensation or bonus to be paid subscribers who retain their stock for five years was fixed at $3.50 per share a year on the common and $5.00 a share annually on the preferred.

It is the belief of many political economists that the profit-sharing plan will be a solution of the labor problem to a large extent in the future. Many of the big corporations are devising means to get their employees interested in the business, and to become stock-holders. In this way they have a sense of proprietorship, which adds to their efficiency as workmen, and as the stock of large corporations can be divided in small holdings as well as in large blocks, it is a comparatively easy matter for employees to invest their savings in the concern which gives them employment and share in the profits. Now that the great industrial organizations are likely to come under Governmental supervision, and be conducted on the square with the water squeezed out, profit sharing will become more popular with the employees.

RECIPROCITY CERTAIN.

Pennsylvania, without regard to party lines or party affiliations will watch with intense interest the fight for and against President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada now about to start on the United States Senate. President Taft is leaning hard upon Pennsylvania on that particular contest and unless all signs fail the chief executive will not be disappointed in the result.

United States Senator Boies Penrose, chairman of the finance committee of the Senate which reported the reciprocity pact to the Senate without recommendation, will not only represent his Senate but he will also represent the President in the coming contest. The fight threatens to be the hardest the Senate has had for years. Party lines have disappeared in the struggle and the representatives of the two great parties and their several factions are fighting in confusion over the important issue. Senator Elihu Root, of New York, is leading one crowd. Senator Penrose is in command of the administrations forces. The Root people hope to weight the pact down with offensive amendments. After reviewing the whole situation with which he is familiar Senator Penrose has announced that the President will be sustained by the passage of his bill. Pennsylvania people have confidence that Senator Penrose knows what he is talking about and are cheered accordingly.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

There is always somebody wanting to become a Senator. And there is always somebody sure to be disappointed.

One advantage of seeing a baseball game at home in a town like Charleroi is that you can get near enough to the play to see how it is made.

With Brownsville claiming 24 minutes as the record time to get the telephone central, there are others to claim other records along the same line.

Just try to imagine how it would have shocked Adam had Eve worn one of those scare-em skirts.—Omaha Bee.

People down around Monongahela have the idea that if they are going to get a street car line to Bentleyville, they will have to get a move on to beat Charleroi. That being the case it is up to us to live up to our reputation.

Rumors are not very good things at best, but sometimes they develop into real life-like proportions.

The value o'avin' one suit o' clothes, is that you always got your lead pencil.—Abe Martin.

Many ministers believe in church advertising only if it's free advertising.

The world is coming more and more to the conclusion that misunderstandings between the umpire and players are usually due to the wrongs done by the latter, as viewed by the big league presidents.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A traveling man in town the other day, pulled off one on a local insurance agent, who is a warm personal friend. An applicant for life insurance had been approved by the doctor, and he seemed to be a good risk, but the agent, according to the traveling man, quizzed him thusly:

"Your occupation?"
"I lead a sedentary life," said the applicant.

"I work in an office and we have no danger or excitement."

"How about sports?" the agent asked. "Do you football? Baseball? Do you box? Do you belong to an athletic club?"

"No—none of that stuff. I guess I'm a safe risk."

"Do you scorch?"
"What do you mean?"
"Do you drive your car faster than the speed limit?"

"I have no car."
"What? How do you get about?"
"I walk."

"Risk refused. A scorcher is a dangerous risk, but a pedestrian has no chance at all. Buy a car, old chap. Sorry—good day."

A physician in a nearby town who has a reputation for surgical work is reported to have come home late one evening, and in explanation to his wife's questioning as to what detained him, he said:
"Oh, another operation for appendicitis. That's the second case I've had this week."

"Dear me," exclaimed his wife, "I wonder who'll be the next," after the doctor had stated who the patient was.
"I don't know," replied the doctor, "I haven't decided yet."

BROWNSVILLE PEOPLE

COMPLAIN OF SERVICE

Claim it Takes Twenty-Four Minutes to Raise Telephone Central

People of Brownsville claim the record for time consumed in getting an answer to telephone calls. Twenty-four minutes is the actual time, so the report comes from there, that on at least one occasion, it took to raise central. Now the people are going to do a little raising, so it is said. A new common battery system was installed there recently by the Bell company.

GAME LAW SIGNED

BY THE GOVERNOR

As a matter of considerable interest locally, owing to the large number of nimrods hereabouts, comes the announcement of the signing by the Governor of the measure for nearly all kinds of game and that also throws the protecting arm of the law about the coon.

The effect of the new law is to establish a synchronous season for all the common small game birds and animals, the fox, gray squirrel, black squirrel, rabbit, grouse, wild turkey, quail and pheasant being included. The law provides that they may be shot only from November first to December fifteenth.

Heretofore with different seasons for different kinds of game the law was not capable of strict enforcement it being hard for some hunters to keep from pulling the trigger in case a squirrel loomed into view, through the season for the latter might have ended. The racoon may be killed only during the months of September, October, November and December. By making the season the same for all game, however the possibility of violations is lessened.

A Joke and a Law.

Tradition is that the habeas corpus act was put on the English statute books as the outcome of a joke at the expense of a bulky lord. It was in the final division in the house of lords, and Lord Grey and Lord Norris were appointed tellers. Lord Norris was not attentive to his duties, and when a very fat lord came in Lord Grey counted the obese person for ten, at first as a joke; but, seeing Lord Norris had not observed, the other noble lord went on with the miscount. By that means, says Bishop Burnet, a sufficient number of votes was secured, and the bill was passed. Long after ward the American colonists took over the act from England.

ANIMALS' TOILETS.

Fur Seals Are as Particular as Women in Fixing Up.

The cat carries her clothesbrush in her mouth, for with her rough tongue she cleanses her glossy coat as a boy brushes off his clothes. She licks one of her front paws and rubs it over her face and she is ready for her breakfast.

Foxes, dogs and wolves do not use their mouths when they need to wash and brush, but scratch themselves vigorously with their hind paws and are as fresh as ever.

The cow with her long, rough tongue combs her coat of hair until it is clean and curly. The horse more than any other animal depends on his owner to keep his coat in proper condition, but often he will roll on the green grass or rub himself down against a tree or fence.

Field mice comb their hair with their hind legs, and the fur seal in a similar manner spends as much time as a woman in making herself look smart.

Although the elephant appears to be thick skinned and callous, he takes great care of his skin. He often gives himself a shower bath by drawing water into his long trunk and blowing it on the different parts of his body. After the bath he sometimes rolls himself in a toilet preparation of dust to keep off the flies.—Our Dumb Animals

Fun Under Fire.

"One of the characteristics of my old comrade, Amos Stillman, Company A, Twenty-third Massachusetts volunteers," said the old soldier. "Another characteristic was a sense of humor which stood him in good stead even in the face of danger and contributed not a little to the gaiety of his comrades. At the battle of Cold Harbor, just before making the charge and while under the Confederate fire, our corporal, who was over six feet tall and scarcely bigger round than a gun barrel, became excited as the enemy's bullets plowed up the earth about him.

"What kind of place is this to keep a man in?" he demanded. "Absolutely without protection!"

"He had no more than spoken when Private Stillman stuck his ramrod in the ground.

"Here, corporal," said he, "get behind this."—Youth's Companion.

Can't Be Clever.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. HERMAN SIETH, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it is free and always helpful.

A Telling Tale.

When the French artist Benjamin Constant was traveling in Morocco he was invited by the sultan to present himself at court at Fez. The painter's first thought was in regard to his costume. "Court" in Europe was one thing; in Morocco it was likely to prove something different. There was nothing to do, however, but to wear his ordinary evening clothes. He was ignorant of the fact that the Moors look upon black garments as very vulgar, and it was only after his arrival that he learned his mistake. The courtiers smiled openly; worst of all, they sneered. The painter was a man of hasty temper, and suddenly, nettled by their insolence, he closed his opera hat and sprang it open in the faces of the jeering crowd. They scattered, yelling with surprise and fear. The sultan heard the noise and demanded the cause. After he had seen and examined the wonderful hat he gave this oracular opinion:

"If I had lived a hundred years in your country and adopted all your other customs I could never have brought myself to set on my head so hideous a contrivance as that!"

Painfully Explicit.

The proprietor of a certain hotel in Europe has posted up the following warning to his clients:

"Gentlemen who come in this hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for, and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, and if they say that they not have anything to eat they will be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager, and should they want not to say anything, they must order the manager for, and not any one else, and unless they not bring it to the notice of the manager, they will be charged for the least things not, according to hotel rate. And no fuss will be allowed afterward about it, and nothing will be allowed to deduct anything out of it."

After this explicit information there surely could be no excuse for misunderstanding.—Boston Globe.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A late book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

The Indian's Vision.

More or less wonderful accounts have from time to time been given of the powers of vision possessed by savage races. During a British anthropological expedition to the Torres strait the visual faculty of the natives was carefully tested, and from these tests the conclusion was reached that the excellence of vision shown by the savages has a psychological origin—that is to say, it arises from knowing what to look for. When the civilized man acquires familiarity with the environment he can see as far as they can. Thus the power of an Indian to tell the sex of a deer at such a distance that distinguishing features like antlers were invisible was found to rest upon his knowledge of the peculiar gait of the male deer.—Scientific American.

Wondrous Tact.

As an example of graciousness and tact Matthew White tells in Munsey's Magazine of a London clergyman who was called on to address an audience of actors. Alluding to the better social status of the players, the clergyman said that in former days it was sometimes customary to brand them as vagabonds and bore a hole in their ears with an awl, that the citizens might thus be forewarned. "And who knows," the clergyman added, "but that it is a survival of an endeavor to hide this mark of indignity that causes some of the actors even today to wear their hair long?"

Bottles and Rags.

"Bottles and rags, bottles and rags!" called out a rag and bone man as he piled his calling.

"Why do you always put these words together?" asked a passerby.

"Because, madam," replied the man, courteously touching his hat, "wherever you find bottles you find rags!"—London Family Herald.

A Shellfish Thought.

"Funny, isn't it?"

"That what?"

"That when a fellow's affairs have reached the blue point he never declares that the world is his oyster!"—Judge.

The Ruthless Razor.

Lady Customer (in furniture shop)—What has become of those lovely sideboards you had when I was last here? Salesman (smirking)—I shaved 'em off, madam.

Sympathy.

Cora—Have you seen my new photographs, dear? Every one says they look exactly like me. Dora—What a shame! Can't you get another sitting?

Chiefly the mold of a man's fortune is in his own hands.—Bacon.

BASEBALL SIGNS.

Their Importance Is Much Greater Than Their Number.

Among the players we do not see the word "signal." With us it is a "sign." There are not as many "signs" used on a ball club as the public would believe. Of course the catcher must "sign" the pitcher for every ball that he throws. That is to prevent confusion or, as we say, to keep from "crossing each other." The catcher has a sign for a curve ball, a fast ball and a slow one.

To ball players all curve balls, such as the drop and the outcurve, are called "a curve." The catcher gives the same sign for any one of them. We do not call a ball that jumps "in" a curve. Ball players do not recognize the incurve. That is called a fast ball. Any ball thrown by a right handed pitcher with sufficient speed will jump inward to a slight degree. The outcurve and drop are unnatural curves, and the ball must be spun in an unnatural manner to get that peculiar "break."

The only other "sign" of importance is the one the batter gives to the runner when he intends to hit the ball. If he wants the runner to start as he swings (the hit and run play) he gives him a certain sign. There are any number of signs used for this play. Sometimes the batter gives it by rubbing his hand over the small end of the bat. Again, he may give it by knocking the dust from his shoes with the big end of the bat.—John J. McGraw in Metropolitan Magazine.

EAST INDIAN RUNNERS.

Kahars Who Can Regularly Make a Hundred Miles a Day.

Ordinary Marathon races seem rather insignificant compared with the regular performances of a certain east Indian caste. These Kahars, also known as Jhinwaris, live in the Punjab, where for centuries they have acted as runners, fishermen and water fowl catchers.

The men are trained runners and are said to be able to go a hundred miles a day without resting. According to Bally's Magazine, there is a well authenticated instance that Tika Ram, the son of Lulu Ram, carried dispatches 300 miles in three days—from Meerut to Meerut.

The point discussed, however, is whether the normal exertions of the Kahar post runners and the similar exertions of jirikisha men shortened their lives, and it appears that the Kahars, trained from childhood to be distance runners, live to be old men. They are not only able to withstand the strain of running great distances under a heavy load, but thrive under it.

The jirikisha man, too, notwithstanding his irregular diet, excessive use of liquor and exposure to the elements, lives to a reasonable age. In Tokyo when a census was taken of the jirikisha men a few years ago there were found to be more than 1,300 who were over fifty-five years of age.

Sailing Is So Interesting.

The lady was reading a nautical novel. She struggled along bravely for a few minutes, but finally had to appeal to her husband.

"Gerald," she said, "the author says that the boat was sailing 'wing and wing.' What does that mean? I've been on a yacht, but I never heard that before."

"That means," answered Gerald, rejoicing in the fact that he, too, had spent several hours on a sailing vessel—"that means that the schooner had her mains' out to port and her fores' out to starboard, or vice versa."

"Oh, I see," cried the lady. "It's just like a chicken—a wing on each side. And now I understand why they call those little sails in the middle 'jibs.' It's short for 'giblets,' of course. Isn't sailing interesting?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ancient Architecture.

Herr Knauth, the architect in charge of the Cathedral of Strassburg, has shown that the principles of construction followed by the great cathedral builders of former times are identical with those used by the builders of the Egyptian pyramids and are based on triangulation. The same simple geometrical figure underlies all these constructions. More than this, Herr Knauth traces the architectural principle in the formation of crystals and lays down this formula: "The laws of proportion in mediæval architecture are the geometrical laws of crystallization."

Cause of the Delay.

"Why is your friend staying so long in New York?"

"I don't know—haven't heard which of the two reasons is keeping him."

"Which of the two?"

"Yes, whether he is having too good a time to come away or has spent all his money and can't get away."—Buffalo Express.

Chronio.

"One thing about Jinx, he never comes into one's office without knocking."

"I never hear about Jinx is that he never goes anywhere without knocking."—Houston Post.

Self.

A perfect understanding of self is a perfect understanding of all things. For man is the condensed whole. From such a man no power is withheld. All things are obedient to him.—Frederom.

Life, upon the whole, is far more pleasurable than painful; otherwise we would not feel pain so impatiently when it comes.—Leigh Hunt.

Very Brief.

A record of brevity in a holiday correspondence was established by a Frenchman in the eighteenth century. Voltaire and Platon, the epigrammatist, exchanged challenges to write the shortest possible letter. So, when Voltaire was starting on a journey, he wrote to Platon, "Eo rus," which is the complete Latin for "I am going to the country." Platon's answer was just "I"—complete Latin for "Go!"

In business correspondence the record is divided between Victor Hugo, who, anxious to know how his "Les Misérables" was going, wrote to the publisher, "2" and the publisher, who triumphantly replied, "1!"

A Servile House of Lords.

When King Henry VIII's name was spoken in his presence in the house of lords every peer prostrated himself with Asiatic servility. An entry in the records of the house gives the substance of a speech delivered by the chancellor on Jan. 16, 1541, in which the king's goodness and wisdom are extolled, and it tells us that whenever his majesty was mentioned, "which happened often," all the lords prostrated themselves, bowing to the ground as one man.

The Important Personage.

"Are you the owner of this place?" asked the book agent.

"I am," replied Farmer Cornstassel.

"Anything I can do for you?"

"No. The chances are that you are too hard worked to have time to read anything, and that you haven't any spare change anyhow. Let me talk to the hired man."—Washington Star.

Poor Smile.

"I never saw any one so timid as Henpeck is," remarked Wigger. "Why, he's like a mouse in his own house."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Wigger. "His wife isn't the least bit afraid of him."

And War Continued.

Miss Goodley—Dess says she's ready to make up if you are. Miss Cutting—Tell her I'd be ready to make up, too, if I had a complexion as muddy as hers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

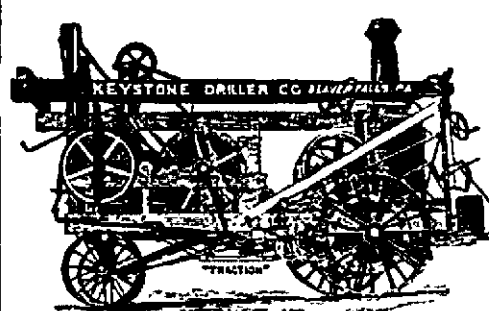

Patience.

Her Mother—You must be patient with him. The Bride—Oh, I am. I know it will take time for him to see that he can't have his own way.

Defining the Difference.

"Madam," said one French gentleman introducing another, "this is the Marquis de Blank, and I assure you he is not such a fool as he looks."

"Madam," quietly remarked the marquis, with a bow, "my friend has just stated the exact difference between himself and me."

Fearful Facts Brought Out

11 Year Old Son of Wentzel Lunzar, Decorator For McBeth Glass Co. After Suffering five Years Gets Relief.

In the Lunzar home at 802 Crest avenue there is now joy and sunshine where previously there was many a sad day, due to the ravage of a monster that had been slowly sapping the strength of the child of these people who are well known here, and the father is employed as decorator at one of our big concerns, the McBeth-Evans Glass Co.

For the last five years, the son of these people, only eleven years old now, has had many symptoms which to the ordinary observer would immediately suggest the idea that it was a severely aggravated case of stomach trouble. There was the gnawing sensation, the irregular bowels more or less constipation at all times, appetite variable, one day no desire for food and the next day voraciously hungry, etc.

Hearing of the Quaker Doctor's success here, the mother was prevailed upon by the lad himself to take him to see this Quaker Doctor as the night before he had stood in the crowd and heard the Quaker describe his symptoms and saw him remove a monster parasite from a large jar that one of our citizens had brought to the Quaker Doctor that day which the Quaker Herbs had removed from his system after years of suffering.

The Quaker Doctor pronounced the boy's trouble a tape worm, gave the child a dose of his herbs and upon going home he possessed a 40 foot Taenia Saginata (technical name of a beef tape worm) The child was not sick, did not lose a meal, and brought the monster down to the Quaker Doctor's office himself. The Quaker says tonight is the last night to get the medicine directly from the Quaker and every package is guaranteed fresh from the laboratory, and is a blessing to the children as well as adults, as it is not only a wonderful combination of nature's own remedies for deranged conditions of the liver, stomach and kidneys, but removes all and any kind of worms from little children without sickness or starvation and brings them away alive.

LOCAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dray and son Edwin of Beallsville were recent guests of Mrs. Dray's brother, James Hill of Fallowfield avenue.

Mrs. W. S. James of Lincoln avenue has just returned from an extended visit among friends and relatives at Elwood and other points in Indiana.

Brother Dies.

James Franks, a brother of S. T. Franks, the Second Street grocer, died at Clarksburg, W. Va., Sunday, from the effects of an operation some days ago. Mr. Franks was on his way to Clarksburg when his brother died. The body will be brought to Uniontown for interment. Mrs. Franks went to that place this morning.

PLAYERS MAKING GOOD IN NATIONAL

Western Pennsylvania Baseballists Hitting Well in the Big Leagues

Players from the immediate vicinity are making good in the big leagues for keeps this year. Prominent among these are Bert Humphries, with the Philadelphia Nationals, "Bob" Coulson, with the Brooklyn Nationals and Frank Cree, with the New York Americans.

Bert Humphries who used to twirl for Charlerai, and pull off records, like no-hit games and such, stands ninth among the pitchers of the National league. He is being pitched considerably this year, and in eight games has an average of 750 per cent.

"Bob" Coulson is playing a great outfield for Brooklyn. He is hitting consistently and has an average of 207 per cent in 52 games. "Bob" formerly cavorted in left garden when caving was good away back in P. O. M. league times. Then some people had the nerve to say he wouldn't last long.

Frank Cree is cracking the ball and fielding in great style for the Highlanders. Frank is a Western Pennsylvania product being a native of Greene county, an ex-California Normal and State College school lad. Cree is batting at 323. He stands fourth on the Highlanders batting order, being reckoned as the clean-up man.

BASEBALL BINGLES

Prof. Daniel umpired behind the plate Friday and his work couldn't have been more satisfactory. On matters of technicality he was questioned once or twice by unknowing ones but he proved to them the rules from away back. Hence there were lots of sneaks for cover.

Coach "Joe" Mason on a decision by Prof. Daniel appealed for a change to Umpire Byland, evidently not recognizing the fact that Daniel was umpire-in-chief. When Jolliffe pitched a part of an inning for Kiefer and sent in Kiefer again, Joe started in to protest but Daniel told him he knew the rules.

Sharkey tried to swipe one from Patton's territory in the fifth and made a fumble which meant a run.

Eddie Butz, the Lutheran last year's second baseman was in uniform and wanted to either coach or catch on the field, but he was restrained from doing either by their majesties the umps.

Wertz was inclined to fuss a trifle about a decision at second when he was called out, but it didn't cut any ice.

Manager Jolliffe of the Christians has enough ginger for two teams. And it is needed on the Christian team.

"Doc" Patton is playing a good field and hitting well for the Lutherans.

Vic McGinty of Monongahela, well known locally, is covering short efficiently for Canton in the O. and P. league.

Joe Phillips, with East Liverpool, who in the good old days used to look good to Charleroi fans in right garden is hitting the ball with the same accustomed regularity.

The Charleroi Church League is getting the reputation of being one of the most successfully conducted Church leagues in Western Pennsylvania. It is largely because of the excellent backing it has.

TO-NIGHT LAST NIGHT OF THE QUAKER SHOW

Phenomenal Sale of the Quaker Herbs the last Four Weeks, Hundreds of Packages of Medicine to be Given Away Tonight; Quaker Doctor Makes His Word Good, Facts and Prophecies Which He Made When He Came Here Have Been Fulfilled, Feature of Tonight Shows, a Ladies Wood Sawing Contest for Cash Prize of $2.00

Tonight will see the last of the Quaker Doctor's free shows and lectures on the lot where he has been conducting them the past four weeks on McKean avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. He says he attributes the phenomenal sale of his medicines here to the fact that people here have not been afraid to buy them and speak of them where they have done good. He says my herbs help sick people and sick people who find help are the best advertisers and most grateful people in the world. We who are well, cannot realize what weeks and months of suffering mean. Good health after all is better than all the money in the world and because I have been able to help these poor creatures who have been suffering, some of them for years, without any hope of permanent relief—for this and this alone do I command the respect and good wishes of the people in towns that I visit. I am going to give my last lecture and show in Charleroi tonight

The people here have been very liberal and I realize that almost everyone that will attend my final performance tonight will have already purchased one or more of my remedies. Now as a souvenir of my stay here and as I want every family in Charleroi to have one of each of my remedies in the house, I am going to present to every purchaser of a package of my Quaker Herbs tonight one free package of my Quaker Oil. Regular price $1.00 and one free package of my Mineral Salts for Catarrh (regular price $1.00) one free package of my 25 cent complexion soap and one free package of my 25 cent healing salve. I shall sell my regular $2.00 size Quaker Herbs for $1.00 and give one of each of the other remedies, making $1.50 worth of medicine for $1.00. Let me say it is a chance of a life time to invest a dollar for there is no one but what at some one time needs and can use them as hundreds here who have purchased them will testify.

She called at the Mail office on a fraternal visit. Miss Gordon has been writing up a number of towns along the valley and in the Pittsburg district.

Music of Flapping Wings.
The slow flapping of a butterfly's wings produces no sound. When the movements are rapid a noise is produced, which increases with the number of vibrations. Thus the housefly, which produces the sound of F, vibrates its wings 21.120 times a minute, or 335 times a second, and the bee, which makes the sound of A, as many as 26,400 times, or 440 times a second. A tired bee hums on E and therefore, according to theory, vibrates its wings only 330 times a second.

Costs of Man Alleged to
Have Robbed Him

A foreigner whose first name is "Bill" and whose last name is a question, is out $9.85, as the result of being held up, it is claimed, and Sunday night. The $9.85 he is out, through paying the fine of the man who held up the money which he owed the latter.

Bill was on his way home Saturday night, it is said, and passing through a dark place, in the vicinity of Sixth street near the railroad he was accosted by a man said to be John Ose, and asked to pay $5.00 alleged due the latter. Bill told John to wait a while whereupon it is said that the said John landed on the said Bill. When events were concluded Bill was minus $17 and needed the attention of a physician. The police arrested the man charged with the assault later, and on Sunday he was given a hearing. Bill had been in bed all day but he managed to get to the police station to tell his story. The matter was patched up by Bill agreeing to pay back $7.00 of the loan and the fine and costs.

WAR OVER BOARD BILL

Two Italians were seriously wounded at Monongahela last night in what is believed to have been a Black Hand affray at 9 Bridge street.

Shortly before 11 o'clock, John H. Wiper, a constable, and Urbie Rays were sitting at the flag station of M. & W. railroad on Third street, Charleroi Aerie, No. 300, F. O. E., near Bridge street, when they heard attended in a body. The body was taken to Pittsburg for interment in Calvary cemetery. Pall bearers were James Robison, Patrick Acton, Al. Bertsche, Joseph Welter, Henry Miller, George Carvell, John Gaffney, and John Connors, all fellow members of the late Mr. Ellison in the Charleroi Aerie of Eagles.

The Italian had been shot in the back and in the arm. The shot that went in the back pierced through the stomach of the man and came out. He was taken to the office of Dr. F. F. Underwood by Ryan. Wiper started toward the house from where the shots were fired. He was met by another Italian who had been cut in the forehead with a hatchet. Wiper made an effort to find the assassin but he saw two men going from the house down to the river shore where they got in a skiff. Both injured Italians refused to give their names.

OLD MEN AT WORK

Shopmen's Strike Along
Pennsylvania Rail-
road at End

CONDITION ALONG VALLEY

Understood that Nearly All
Former Employees are
Back at Positions

The trouble between the Pennsylvania railroad and its former shop employees is near an end, according to a statement from the railroad company. Nearly all of the old men are said to have reported back for work in the shops near and in Pittsburg.

The commissary department and "barracks" at the Thirtieth street shop, Pittsburg, have been abolished and the company expects to abolish the commissaries and "barracks" at the other shops during the week. Railroad officials say most of the men on the Monongahela division have returned to work.

It is understood that a number of old men went back to work at West Brownsville this morning, and that the strike there has been settled along with other places along the Monongahela division. West Brownsville is the last place for the "commissary" to be retained. It was the only place where there was any trouble during the course of the strike, along the Monongahela division. The strike has been in force since May 1.

BISHOP WHITEHEAD
COMING WEDNESDAY

The Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, S. T. D., bishop of the diocese of Pittsburgh, will visit St. Mary's Episcopal church Wednesday evening to administer the rite of confirmation. The service will consist of evening prayer and address by the bishop following the office of confirmation. This is the bishop's second visit to St. Mary's church this year. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Firemen Hear
Annual Sermon

Rev. J. T. Hackett preached the annual sermon to the Charleroi firemen Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church. Meeting at the firemen's rooms in the Borough Building, the firemen marched to the church. A special program was rendered for the occasion by the choir under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel. Te Deum in E flat by Dudley Buck was sung and the anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," by Harry R. Shelley. About 30 members of the department were present.

Tags are being sold today by officers and managers of Charleroi Church League teams and their players for "Booster Day" to be celebrated this evening. The feature of "Booster Day" will be the game this evening between the Catholics and Methodists. The Executive Committee arranged for the affair as a means of replenishing the league treasury.

Three Week Pay
Boosts Business

Shopping centers along the valley had a busy day Saturday, that day being the occasion of a three-weeks pay in many places. Charleroi stores were busy and in the evening large crowds thronged the streets. A big pay was disbursed at the Monessen mills.

ADULT CLASSES MEET

Arrangements For Trip to Canonsburg Friday Oc-
cupy Attention

At a meeting of the Adult Federated Classes held Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church here, it was decided not to charter a special car to take people from the Charleroi district to the county Sunday School convention on the closing day of this week. There will probably be from 50 to 100 persons from the district to participate in the Adult's Day parade, but owing to the fact that several of them desire to leave early in the day, it was decided it would not be best to secure a special car.

In the parade which will take place on Friday evening the Charleroi district delegation will carry a banner. The Presbyterian Boy's Brigade will go from Charleroi, and be in the parade. The last car which it will be possible for people from here to take in order to reach Canonsburg in time to take part in the parade will be the one leaving here at 7:32 o'clock. Four delegates from every school in the district are entitled to attend.

At the meeting Sunday it was decided that the Adult Federated Classes hold an open meeting July 9, at the Methodist Episcopal church at which time an address will be made and a musical program rendered.

The choral union consisted of about 30 voices, in which there was included two Charleroi singers, L. E. Jones, and Thomas Kendrick. The program consisted of choruses, solos, duets and quartets. All the musical numbers were excellently rendered. Rev. J. R. Burson, of Old Concord preached both morning and evening.

SAVINGS BANK
FOR CANONSBURG

Postmaster General Hitchcock has designated Canonsburg, this county, as a postal savings bank. Canonsburg is thus second on the roll of postal-savings banks for Washington county. McDonald was the first to be ordered but as the McDonald office will not open until October 1, Canonsburg will likely be the first office to start off with business. The order for this test station goes into effect on July 11.

COMMENCEMENT SEASON

The commencement season at Washington and Jefferson College formally opened Sunday when the three score members of the class of 1911 filed across the campus in cap and gown and entered the big stone gymnasium by President James D. Moffitt of the college.

President Moffitt took his text from I Corinthians, xii, 31, "But covet earnestly the greater gifts."

"It is a mistake," he said, "to despise human desires as the principal element in all coveting. Desire and the tendency to multiply new desires are to be regarded as the source of human progress. Desires become dangerous and lead to sin and crime only when gratification involves the violation of the divine law or human rights."

"The United States Steel Corporation through its highest officer, has asked for national regulation, begging Uncle Sam to hold it lest it hurt its competitors. After all, regulation by law is better for all parties than rigid suppression. Socialistic schemes for protection too often propose to suppress the desires of men that have led to this modern development. It is better for us to seek a harmless way for the gratification of these progressive desires than to cut the nerve of human activity."

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson's text Sunday night was taken from John xii; 25, 26—"He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

Dr. Stevenson is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, in

TRAIN STRIKES HIS AUTO

H. B. Hughes, Fellow Occu-
pant, Escapes by Leaping
over the Seat

When a train crashed into the automobile of W. James Munce, Jr., a wealthy Washington citizen Saturday evening at the Richhill crossing near Washington, Mr. Munce was killed. H. B. Hughes, Esq., had a narrow escape. He leaped from the machine and escaped with a sprained ankle.

The two men were driving to the Washington Country Club. As the machine started slowly across the tracks, the roar of a locomotive was heard, and as the men looked up they saw the train bearing down on them.

Attorney Hughes vaulted over the seat of the car. As he alighted, he heard the locomotive crash into the machine. The automobile was dragged 30 feet and thrown against an iron tower at the side of the track. The machine was reduced to kindling and Munce was killed instantly. Fred Logan, the engineer of the train, was a friend of Munce.

Munce attended Washington and Jefferson College and was a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma Society. Munce is survived by his mother, with whom he made his home, and the following brothers: Dr. T. Edward Munce of Harrisburg; Russell Munce of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Samuel Munce of Washington, and R. L. Munce of Canonsburg, now in China on a tour of the world. He was well known in the Monongahela valley.

Claimed to Have Disturbed Calm
on Trolley Car

Martin Groman, a coal miner, who it is said, was out for a little fun on Sunday and got a little too much red eye after spending a night in the lock-up thinking over his trouble, decided this morning the best way was to pay for the damage he had caused. Groman took a street car ride yesterday and went to Roscoe. He wanted to get off at a certain place, and was inclined to raise a disturbance. It is stated, when the car went past. At the end of the run, he became very wrath, according to the story told, and shoved an umbrella through a window being brought to Charleroi and raising a disturbance all the way down, the conductor of the car had him put off here and arrested. He was given a fine, but at the time refused to settle for the window. This morning he was willing to come to terms.

PROFIT SHARING.

The profit-sharing plan of the United States Steel Corporation is yearly becoming more popular, subscriptions of employees at the beginning of this year having been the largest of any since the steel trust engaged in business. Subscriptions were received from 26,373 employees for an aggregate of 19,229 shares of preferred and 28,119 shares of common. In 1909, the only other year in which common stock was offered to employees, 15,318 shares of common and 25,000 shares of preferred were subscribed. The common and preferred stock subscribed represents a valuation, based upon the subscription prices of approximately $4,250,- 000. As is generally known the subscription price this year was fixed at $114 for the preferred, the allowance for special compensation or bonus to be paid subscribers who retain their stock for five years was fixed at $3.50 per share a year on the common and $5.00 a share annually on the preferred.

It is the belief of many political economists that the profit-sharing plan will be a solution of the labor problem to a large extent in the future. Many of the big corporations are devising means to get their employes interested in the business, and to become stock-holders. In this way they have a sense of proprietorship, which adds to their efficiency as workmen, and as the stock of large corporations can be divided in small holdings as well as in large blocks, it is a comparatively easy matter for employes to invest their savings in the concern which gives them employment and share in the profits. Now that the great industrial organizations are likely to come under Governmental supervision, and be conducted on the square with the water squeezed out, profit sharing will become more popular with the employes.

RECIPROCITY CERTAIN.

Pennsylvania, without regard to party lines or party affiliations will watch with intense interest the fight for and against President Taft's reciprocity agreement with Canada now about to start on the United States Senate. President Taft is leaning hard upon Pennsylvania on that particular contest and unless all signs fail the chief executive will not be disappointed in the result.

United States Senator Boies Penrose, chairman of the finance committee of the Senate which reported the reciprocity pact to the Senate without recommendation, will not only represent his Senate but he will also represent the President in the coming contest. The fight threatens to be the hardest the Senate has had for years. Party lines have disappeared in the struggle and the representatives of the two great parties and their several factions are fighting in confusion over the important issue.

Senator Elihu Root, of New York, is leading one crowd. Senator Penrose is in command of the administrations forces. The Root people hope to weight the pact down with offensive amendments. After reviewing the whole situation with which he is familiar Senator Penrose has announced that the President will be sustained by the passage of his bill. Pennsylvania people have confidence that Senator Penrose knows what he is talking about and are cheered accordingly.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

There is always somebody wanting to become a Senator. And there is always somebody sure to be disappointed.

One advantage of seeing a baseball game at home in a town like Charle-rois is that you can get near enough to the play to see how it made.

With Brownsville claiming 24 minutes as the record time to get the telephone central, there are others to claim other records along the same line.

Just try to imagine how it would have shocked Adam had Eve worn one of those scare-em skirts.—Omaha Bee.

People down around Monongahela have the idea that if they are going to get a street car line to Bentley-ville, they will have to get a move on to beat Charleroi. That being the case it is up to us to live up to our reputation.

Rumors are not very good things at best, but sometimes they develop into real life-like proportions.

The value o'avin' one suit o'

Many ministers believe in church advertising only if it's free advertising.

The world is coming more and more to the conclusion that misunderstandings between the umpire and players are usually due to the wrongs done by the latter, as viewed by the big league presidents.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A traveling man in town the other day, pulled off one on a local insurance agent, who is a warm personal friend. An applicant for life insurance had been approved by the doctor, and he seemed to be a good risk, but the agent, according to the traveling man, quizzed him thusly:

"Your occupation?"

"I lead a sedentary life," said the applicant. "I work in an office and we have no danger or excitement."

"How about sports?" the agent asked. "Do you football? Baseball?
 Do you box? Do you belong to an athletic club?"

"No—none of that stuff. I guess I'm a safe risk."

"Do you scorch?"

"What do you mean?"

"Do you drive your car faster than the speed limit?"

"I have no car."

"What? How do you get about?"

"I walk."

"Risk refused. A scorcher is a dangerous risk, but a pedestrian has no chance at all. Buy a car, old chap.
 Sorry—good day."

A physician in a nearby town who has a reputation for surgical work is reported to have come home late one evening, and in explanation to his wife's questioning as to what detained him, he said:

"Oh, another operation for appendicitis. That's the second case I've had this week."

"Dear me," exclaimed his wife, "I wonder who'll be the next," after the doctor had stated who the patient was
 "I don't know," replied the doctor,
 "I haven't decided yet."

BROWNSVILLE PEOPLE COMPLAIN OF SERVICE

Claim it Takes Twenty-Four Minutes to Raise Telephone Central

People of Brownsville claim the record for time consumed in getting an answer to telephone calls. Twenty-four minutes is the actual time, so the report comes from there, that on at least one occasion, it took to raise central. Now the people are going to do a little raising, so it is said. A new common battery system was installed there recently by the Bell company.

GAME LAW SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR

As a matter of considerable interest locally, owing to the large number of nimrods hereabouts, comes the announcement of the signing by the Governor of the measure for nearly all kinds of game and that also throws the protecting arm of the law about the coon.

The effect of the new law is to establish a synchronous season for all the common small game birds and animals, the fox, gray squirrel, black squirrel, rabbit, grouse, wild turkey, quail and pheasant being included.
 The law provides that they may be shot only from November first to December fifteenth.

Heretofore with different seasons for different kinds of game the law was not capable of strict enforcement it being hard for some hunters out after rabbits, for example to keep from pulling the trigger in case a squirrel loomed into view, through the season for the latter might have ended. The racoon may be killed only during the months of September, October, November and December.
 By making the season the same for all game, however the possibility of violations is lessened.

A Joke and a Law.

Tradition is that the habeas corpus act was put on the English statute books as the outcome of a joke at the expense of a bulky lord. It was in the final division in the house of lords, and Lord Grey and Lord Norris were appointed tellers. Lord Norris was not attentive to his duties, and when a very fat lord came in Lord Grey counted the obese person for ten, at first as a joke; but, seeing Lord Norris had not observed, the other noble lord went on with the miscount. By that means, says Bishop Burnet, a sufficient number of votes was secured, and the bill was passed. Long afterward the American colonists took over the act from England.

ANIMALS' TOILETS.
For Seals Are as Particular as Women in Fixing Up.
The cat carries her clothesbrush in her mouth, with her rough tongue she cleanses her glossy coat as a boy brushes on his clothes. She licks one of her front paws and rubs it over her face and she is ready for her breakfast.
Foxes, dogs and wolves do not use their mouths when they need to wash and brush, but scratch themselves vigorously with their hind paws and are as fresh as ever.
The cow with her long, rough tongue combs her coat of hair until it is clean and curly. The horse more than any other animal depends on his owner to keep his coat in proper condition, but often he will roll on the green grass or rub himself down against a tree or fence.
Field mice comb their hair with their hind legs, and the fur seal in a similar manner spends as much time as a woman in making herself look smart.
Although the elephant appears to be thick skinned and callous, he takes great care of his skin. He often gives himself a shower bath by drawing water into his long trunk and blowing it on the different parts of his body. After the bath he sometimes rolls him self in the mud.

"One of the characteristics of my old comrade James Stillman, Company A, Twenty-third Massachusetts volunteers, was bravery in actual fighting service," said the old soldier. "An other characteristic was a sense of humor which stood him in good stead even in the face of danger and contributed not a little to the gaiety of his comrades. At the battle of Cold Harbor, just before making the charge and while under the Confederate fire, our corporal, who was over six feet tall and scarcely bigger round than a gun barrel, became excited as the enemy's bullets plowed up the earth about him.
"What kind of place is this to keep a man in?" he demanded. Absolutely without protection."
"He had no more than spoken when Private Stillman stuck his ramrod in the ground.
"Here, corporal," said he, get behind this."—Youth's Companion.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your Compound. I have been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman.
I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."
—Mrs. ILLIANA SMITH, Pound, Wis.
The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs, is universal. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, painful periods, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

A Terrifying Tale.
When the French artist Benjamin Constant was traveling in Morocco he was invited by the sultan to present himself at court at Fez. The painter's first thought was in regard to his costume. "Court" in Europe was one thing; in Morocco it was likely to prove something different. There was nothing to do, however, but to wear his ordinary evening clothes. He was ignorant of the fact that the Moors look upon black garments as very vulgar, and it was only after his arrival that he learned his mistake. The courtiers smiled openly; worst of all, they sneered. The painter was a man of hasty temper, and suddenly, nettled by their insolence, he closed his opera hat and sprang it open in the faces of the jeering crowd. They scattered, yelling with surprise and fear. The sultan heard the noise and demanded the cause. After he had seen and examined the wonderful hat he gave this oracular opinion:
"If I had lived a hundred years in your country and adopted all four other customs I could never have brought myself to set on my head so hideous a contrivance as that!"

Painfully Explicit.
The proprietor of a certain hotel in Europe has posted up the following notice:
"Gentlemen who come to this hotel not say anything about their meals they will be charged for and if they should say beforehand that they are going out to breakfast or dinner, and if they say that they not have anything to eat they will be charged, or unless they bring it to the notice of the manager and should they want not to say anything, they must order the manager for, and not any one else and unless they not bring it to the notice of the manager, they will be charged for the least things not, according to hotel rate. And no fees will be allowed afterward about it, and nothing will be allowed to deduct anything out of it."
After this explicit information there surely could be no excuse for misunderstanding.—Boston Globe.

Surprising the Bullock.
In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A late book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.
A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beezlebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.
"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"
To his churlish astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

The Indian's Vision.
More or less wonderful accounts have from time to time been given of the powers of vision possessed by savage races. During a British anthropological expedition to the Torres strait the visual faculty of the natives was carefully tested, and from these tests the conclusion was reached that the excellence of vision shown by the savages has a psychological origin—that is to say, it arises from knowing what to look for. When the civilized man acquires familiarity with the environment he can see as far as they can. Thus the power of an Indian to tell the sex of a deer at such a distance that distinguishing features like antlers were invisible was found to rest upon his knowledge of the peculiar gait of the male deer.—Scientific American

Wonderous Tact.
As an example of graciousness and tact Matthew White tells in Munsey's Magazine of a London clergyman who was called on to address an audience of actors. Alluding to the better social status of the players, the clergyman said that in former days it was sometimes customary to brand them as vagabonds and bore a hole in their ears with an awl, that the citizens might thus be forewarned. "And who knows," the clergyman added, "but that it is a survival of an endeavor to hide this mark of indignity that causes some of the actors even today to wear their hair long?"

Bottles and Rags.
"Bottles and rags, bottles and rags!" called out a rag and bone man as he plied his calling.
"Why do you always put these words together?" asked a passerby.
"Because, madam," replied the man, courteously touching his hat, "wherever you find bottles you find rags."—London Family Herald.

A Shellfish Thought.
"Funny, isn't it?"
"That what?"
"That when a fellow's affairs have reached the blue point he never declares that the world is his oyster!"—Judge.

The Ruthless Razor.
Lady Customer (in furniture shop)—What has become of those lovely sideboards you had when I was last here? Salesman (smirking)—I shaved 'em off, madam.

Sympathy.
Cora—Have you seen my new photographs, dear? Every one says they look exactly like me. Dora—What a shame! Can't you get another sitting?
Chiefly the mold of a man's fortune is in his own hands.—Bacon.

BASEBALL SIGNS.
Their Importance Is Much Greater Than Their Number.
Among the players we do not use the word "signal." With us it is a "sign." There are not as many "signs" used on a ball club as the public would believe. Of course the catcher must "sign" the pitcher for every ball that he throws. That is to prevent confusion or, as we say, to keep from "crossing each other." The catcher has a sign for a curve ball, a fast ball and a slow one. To ball players all curve balls, such as the drop and the outcurve, are called "a curve." The catcher gives the same sign for any one of them. We do not call a ball that jumps "in" a curve. Ball players do not recognize the incurve. That is called a fast ball. Any ball thrown by a right handed pitcher with sufficient speed will jump inward to a slight degree. The outcurve and drop are unnatural curves, and the ball must be spun in an unnatural manner to get that peculiar "break."
The only other "sign" of importance is the one the batter gives to the runner when he intends to hit the ball. If he wants the runner to start as he swings (the hit and run play) he gives him a certain sign. There are any number of "signs" used by the players. Sometimes the batter gives it by rubbing his hand over the small end of the bat. Again, he may give it by knocking the dust from his shoes with the big end of the bat.—John J. McGraw in Metropolitan Magazine.

EAST INDIAN RUNNERS.
Kahars Who Can Regularly Make a Hundred Miles a Day.
Ordinary Marathon races seem rather insignificant compared with the regular performances of a certain east Indian caste. These Kahars, also known as Jhinwaris, live in the Punjab, where for centuries they have acted as runners, fishermen and water fowl catchers.
The men are trained runners and are said to be able to go a hundred miles a day without resting. According to Ball's Magazine, there is a well authenticated instance that Tika Ram, the son of Lala Ram, carried dispatches 300 miles in three days—from Meerut to Meerut.
The point discussed, however, is whether the normal exertions of the Kahar post runners and the similar exertions of jirkishia men shortened their lives, and it appears that the Kahars, trained from childhood to be distance runners, live to be old men. They are not only able to withstand the strain of running great distances under a heavy load, but thrive under it.
The jirkishia man, too, notwithstanding his irregular diet, excessive use of liquor and exposure to the elements, lives to a reasonable age. In Tokyo when a census was taken of the jirkishia men a few years ago there were found to be more than 1,300 who were over fifty-five years of age.

Sailing Is So Interesting.
The lady was reading a nautical novel. She struggled along bravely for a few minutes, but finally had to appeal to her husband.
"Gerald," she said, "the author says that the boat was sailing 'wing and wing.' What does that mean? I've been on a yacht, but I never heard that before."
"That means," answered Gerald, rejoicing in the fact that he, too, had spent several hours on a sailing vessel—"that means that the schooner had her masts' out to port and her fores' out to starboard, or vice versa."
"Oh, I see," cried the lady. "It's just like a chicken—a wing on each side. And now I understand why they call those little sails in the middle 'jibs.' It's short for 'jibbets,' of course. Isn't sailing interesting?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ancient Architecture.
Herr Knauth, the architect in charge of the Cathedral of Strassburg, has shown that the principles of construction followed by the great cathedral builders of former times are identical with those used by the builders of the Egyptian pyramids and are based on triangulation. The same simple geometric figure underlies all these constructions. More than this, Herr Knauth traces the architectural principle in the formation of crystals and lays down this formula: "The laws of proportion in mediæval architecture are the geometrical laws of crystallization."

Cause of the Delay.
"Why is your friend staying so long in New York?"
"I don't know—haven't heard which of the two reasons is keeping him."
"Which of the two?"
"Yes, whether he's having too good a time to come away or has spent all his money and can't get away."—Buffalo Express.

Chronicle.
"One thing about Jinx, he never comes into one's office without knocking."
"Another thing about Jinx is that he never comes anywhere without knocking."—Houston Post.

Self.
A perfect understanding of self is a perfect understanding of all things for man is the condensed whole. From such a man no power is withheld. All things are obedient to him.—Freedom.
Life, upon the whole, is far more pleasurable than painful; otherwise we would not feel pain so impatiently when it comes.—Leigh Hunt.

Very Brief.
A record of brevity in a holiday correspondence was established by a Frenchman in the eighteenth century. Voltaire and Pilon, the epigrammatist, exchanged challenges to write the shortest possible letter. So when Voltaire was starting on a journey, he wrote to Pilon "To us" which is the complete Latin for "I am going to the country." Pilon's answer was just "I"—complete Latin for "Go!"
In business correspondence the record is divided between Victor Hugo, who, anxious to know how his Les Misérables was going, wrote to the publisher, "?" and the publisher, who triumphantly replied, "!"

A Servile House of Lords.
When King Henry VIII's name was spoken in his presence in the house of lords every peer prostrated himself with Asiatic servility. An entry in the records of the house gives the substance of a speech delivered by the chancellor on Jan. 16, 1541, in which the king's goodness and wisdom are extolled, and it tells us that whenever his majesty was mentioned, "which happened often," all the lords prostrated themselves, bowing to the ground as one man.

The Important Personage.
"Are you the owner of this place?" asked the book agent.
"I am," replied Farmer Cornstassel.
"Anything I can do for you?"
"No. The chances are that you are too hard worked to have time to read anything; and that you haven't any spare change to give. Let me talk to the hired man."—Washington Star.

Poor Smile.
"I never saw any one so thick as Heupke is," remarked Wagner. "Why, he's like a mouse in his own house."
"Nonsense," exclaimed Wagner. "His wife isn't the least bit afraid of him!"

And War Continued.
Miss Goodley—Dess says she's ready to make up if you are. Miss Cottling—Tall her I'd be ready to make up, too, if I had a complexion as muddy as hers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Patience.
Her Mother—You must be patient with him. The Bride—Oh, I am. I know it will take time for him to see that he can't have his own way.

Denying the Difference.
"Madam," said one French gentleman introducing another, "this is the Marquis de Blank, and I assure you he is not such a fool as he looks."
"Madam," quietly remarked the marquis, with a bow, "my friend has just stated the exact difference between himself and me."

Fearful Facts Brought Out

11 Year Old Son of Wentzel Lunzar, Decorator For McBeth Class Co. After Suffering five Years Gets Relief.

In the Lunzar home at 802 Crest avenue there is now joy and sunshine where previously there was many a sad day, due to the ravage of a monster that had been slowly sapping the strength of the child of these people who are well known here, and the father is employed as decorator at one of our big concerns, the McBeth-Evans Glass Co.

For the last five years, the son of these people, only eleven years old now, has had many symptoms which to the ordinary observer would immediately suggest the idea that it was a severely aggravated case of stomach trouble. There was the gnawing sensation, the irregular bowels more or less constipation at all times, appetite variable, one day no desire for food and the next day ravenously hungry, etc.

Hearing of the Quaker Doctor's success here, the mother was prevailed upon by the lad himself to take him to see this Quaker Doctor as the night before he had stood in the crowd and heard the Quaker describe his symptoms and saw him remove a monster parasite from a large jar that one of our citizens had brought to the Quaker Doctor that day which the Quaker Herbs had removed from his system after years of suffering.

The Quaker Doctor pronounced the boy's trouble a tape worm, gave the child a dose of his herbs and upon going home he possessed a 40 foot Taenia Saginata (technical name of a beef tape worm) The child was not sick, did not lose a meal, and brought the monster down to the Quaker Doctor's office himself. The Quaker says tonight is the last night to get the medicine directly from the Quaker and every package is guaranteed fresh from the laboratory, and is a blessing to the children as well as adults, as it is not only a wonderful combination of nature's own remedies for deranged conditions of the liver, stomach and kidneys, but removes all and any kind of worms from little children without sickness or starvation and brings them away alive.

Mr. Franks was on his way to Clarksburg when his brother died. The body will be brought to Uniontown for interment. Mrs. Franks went to that place this morning.

PLAYERS MAKING GOOD IN NATIONAL

Western Pennsylvania Baseballists Hitting Well in the Big Leagues

Players from the immediate vicinity are making good in the big leagues for keeps this year. Prominent among these are Bert Humphries, with the Philadelphia Nationals, "Bob" Coulson, with the Brooklyn Nationals and Frank Cree, with the New York Americans.

Bert Humphries who used to twirl for Charlerai, and pull off records, like no-hit games and such, stands ninth among the pitchers of the National league. He is being pitched considerably this year, and in eight games has an average of 750 per cent.

"Bob" Coulson is playing a great outfield for Brooklyn. He is hitting consistently and has an average of 267 per cent in 52 games. "Bob" formerly cavorted in left garden when cavorting was good away back in P. O. M. league times. Then some people had the nerve to say he wouldn't last long.

Frank Cree is cracking the ball and fielding in great style for the Highlanders. Frank is a Western Pennsylvania product being a native of Greene county, an ex-California Normal and State College school lad. Cree is batting at 323. He stands fourth on the Highlanders batting order, being reckoned as the clean-up man.

Prof. Daniel umpired behind the plate Friday and his work couldn't have been more satisfactory. On matters of technicality he was questioned once or twice by unknowing ones but he proved to them the rules from away back. Hence there were lots of sneaks for cover.

Coach "Joe" Mason on a decision by Prof. Daniel appealed for a change to Umpire Byland, evidently not recognizing the fact that Daniel was umpire-in-chief. When Jolliffe pitched a part of an inning for Kiefer and sent in Kiefer again, Joe started in to protest but Daniel told him he knew the rules.

Sharkey tried to swipe one from Patton's territory in the fifth and made a fumble which meant a run.

Eddie Butz, the Lutheran last year's second baseman was in uniform and wanted to either coach or catch on the field, but he was restrained from doing either by their majesties the ump's.

Wertz was inclined to fuss a trifle about a decision at second when he was called out, but it didn't cut any ice.

Manager Jolliffe of the Christians has enough ginger for two teams. And it is needed on the Christian team.

"Doc" Patton is playing a good field and hitting well for the Lutherans.

Vic McGinty of Monongahela, well known locally, is covering short efficiently for Canton in the O. and P. league.

Joc Phillips, with East Liverpool, who in the good old days used to look good to Charleroi fans in right garden is hitting the ball with the same accustomed regularity.

The Charleroi Church League is getting the reputation of being one of the most successfully conducted Church leagues in Western Pennsylvania. It is largely because of the excellent backing it has.

Phenomenal Sale of the Quaker Herbs the last Four Weeks, Hundreds of Packages of Medicine to be Given Away Tonight; Quaker Doctor Makes His Word Good, Facts and Prophecies Which He Made When He Came Here Have Been Fulfilled, Feature of Tonight Shows, a Ladies Wood Sawing Contest for Cash Prize of $2.00

Tonight will see the last of the Quaker Doctor's free shows and lectures on the lot where he has been conducting them the past four weeks on McKean avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. He says he attributes the phenomenal sale of his medicines here to the fact that people here have not been afraid to buy them and speak of them where they have done good. He says my herbs help sick people and sick people who find help are the best advertisers and most grateful people in the world. We who are well, cannot realize what weeks and months of suffering mean. Good health after all is better than all the money in the world and because I have been able to help these poor creatures who have been suffering, some of them for years, without any hope of permanent relief—for this and this alone do I command the respect and good wishes of the people in towns that I visit. I am going to give my last lecture and show in Charleroi tonight

The people here have been very liberal and I realize that almost everyone that will attend my final performance tonight will have already purchased one or more of my remedies. Now as a souvenir of my stay here and as I want every family in Charleroi to have one of each of my remedies in the house, I am going to present to every purchaser of a package of my Quaker Herbs tonight one free package of my Quaker Oil. Regular price $1.00 and one free package of my Mineral Salts for Catarrh (regular price $1.00) one free package of my 25 cent complexion soap and one free package of my 25 cent healing salve. I shall sell my regular $2.00 size Quaker Herbs for $1.00 and give one of each of the other remedies, making $4.50 worth of medicine for $1.00. Let me say it is a chance of a life time to invest a dollar for there is no one but what at some one time, needs and can use them as hundreds here who have purchased them will testify.

She called at the Mail office on a fraternal visit. Miss Gordon has been writing up a number of towns along the valley and in the Pittsburg district.

Music of Flapping Wings.
The slow flapping of a butterfly's wings produces no sound. When the movements are rapid a noise is produced, which increases with the number of vibrations. Thus the housefly, which produces the sound of F, vibrates its wings 21,120 times a minute, or 335 times a second, and the bee, which makes the sound of A, as many as 26,400 times, or 440 times a second. A tired bee hums on B and therefore, according to theory, vibrates its wings only 330 times a second.
